Briefs...

Last fall Councilman Gunnar Norberg proposed to the city council that the off shore kelp, which has a tendency to wash up on the beach and smell, be hauled away from Carmel Bay. The inability of anyone to determine whose responsibility it was to remove the kelp, city, state or nation, discouraged further investigation.

This is fortunate. Apparently we haven't appreciated our kelp. In Southern California they think so highly of it that University of California Institute of Marine Resources is sending divers underwater to plant it.

According to a U.C. dispatch, La Jolla diver scientists are "giving nature a helping hand in replenishing southern California's kelp beds, decimated by three years of warm water."

"The local kelp beds are near extinction. South of Los Angeles there is only about a tenth as much kelp as there was ten years ago."

The U. C. scientists are willing to take great pains to avert the disaster. To get kelp conditioned to warm water, they go to Baja California where; "The divers loosen mature kelp plants from the rocks to which they are attached. They keep them moist on the return trip to San Diego. To transplant them they use nylon cord to tie the bulky kelp holdfasts to rocks off San Diego. Within a month, the holdfast has attached itself securely to its new habitation."

Next summer when you go to the beach, instead of holding your nose, sniff deeply in appreciation. Thanks to our cold Carmel Bay water, we have NATURAL kelp, in profusion. We don't have to depend on Baja California import!

Lucullus Herbertus, black cat pet of the Arthur Dahl family of Pebble Beach, cracks and eats nuts like a squirrel.

Lucullus is named after Mrs. Lucille Herbert, Mrs. Dahl's sister, who heard a kitten miaowing in the bushes on San Jose Creek Beach last summer. For a month she took food to the animal and tamed it. As winter approached, reluctant to leave the kitten on the beach, Mrs. Herbert asked the Dahl family to add a third black cat to their household pets.

The Dahls gave the kitten a Latinized male version of Mrs. Herbert's name and provided a blue collar with a bell for Lucullus Herbertus. "A most affectionate cat," Mrs. Dahl reports.

After moving to the Dahl home, Lucullus discovered a bowl of nuts on a kitchen counter. He began by selecting peanuts, cracking the shells in his mouth and eating the kernels. "He now cracks and eats hazelnuts and filberts, and loves almonds," according to Mrs. Dahl.

Mrs. Herbert, who discovered and tamed Lucullus, is a painter. A show of her work is being exhibited currently at Town House.

Boys of Carmel Cub Pack 48, sponsored by All Saints' Church, purchased eight pine trees with money they obtained from selling Scoutorama tickets. Last night they received permission from the city council to plant these trees in the downtown area under the supervision of the street department.

The request was made by Glenn

School District Receives $5,422 Federal Loan For Preliminary Planning

Through the Housing and Home Finance Agency, community facilities administration, an advance of $5422 for preliminary planning for an elementary school for Carmel Unified School District was authorized yesterday by Commissioner John C. Hazeltine of the Community Finance Agency.

The proposed school for accommodation of 200 pupils will be planned for later expansion to accommodate 500, the school district reported. Construction on the project, to cost an estimated $300,875 is expected to begin July, 1961.

Senior Craftsmen Organize, Receive Offer Of Shop Space

When Party Carousel moves to larger quarters in the Tuck Box Court on March 15, the Monterey Peninsula Senior Craftsmen, for the first time, will have a permanent sales room.

The owners of Party Carousel have offered the senior craftsmen the use of the patio room in their new shop.

The senior craftsmen who had participated in the Craft Fairs of 1958-1959 met recently at The Carmel Foundation's Town House to discuss how best to serve senior craftsmen.

The first Craft Fair, a week-long non-profit sale, was sponsored by Soroptimists International, Monterey Branch, and co-sponsored by The Carmel Foundation and the Lions Club of Carmel to help senior craftsmen market their handcrafts. It was so successful in realizing its objectives that it was repeated in 1959 under the sponsorship of The Carmel Foundation, again assisted by the Lions Club, August Nieto donating the use of Su Vecino.

Because of the effectiveness of these two fairs, the senior craftsmen decided that a year-round outlet for their work would be justified and they formed an organization, The Monterey Peninsula Senior Craftsmen, membership open to all men and women 50 years of age or over who wish either to market their work or who are interested in helping this project.

Mrs. Helen Bennett of Carmel Valley was elected president. Mrs.

Total district population is 15,200 with a current school enrollment of 1,579.

The new school will be located three-fourths mile east of Highway 1, south side of the Carmel Valley Road.

The project is assisted through the program of advance public works planning, authorized by the housing act of 1954. This program provides interest-free advances for planning essential public works and community facilities which are repayable at start of construction.

The advance of $5422 is the exact amount of one of the school district board's requests; a second application for $35,000 to cover the rest of preliminary plans of school construction is being processed. This includes plans for a new high school as well as the above elementary district school on the 55 acre site three-fourths mile up Carmel Valley; and an addition to Carmelo School.

Tuesday, the finance committee for the school district board will meet to discuss feasibility of having a school bond election before an annexation to Monterey Junior College election, which has been postponed pending proposed legislation in Sacramento.

STOCK BROKERS FROLIC AT PEBBLE BEACH

The Annual Outing of the Pacific Coast Stock Exchange will be held at Pebble Beach Del Monte Lodge this week end. In attendance will be more than 140 members, partners and representatives of leading West Coast Investment and Securities firms. Business conferences will be held throughout the session.

Music On The Peninsula

BY MARY LINDSAY-OLIVER

The third Monterey County Symphony concert of the season at Sunset Auditorium Tuesday night started with the Overture of Cimarosa's opera, The Secret Marriage, with its three strong introductory notes. It is a lively bit of the old Italian's writing and was played with energetic emphasis by the orchestra. That, with the No. 5 Beethoven Symphony which occupied the second half of the program with its well known four note introduction, was an unusual co-incidence. They arrest attention as perhaps no other form does! Conductor Earl Murray had kept the program within a period of no great length which is to be commended, for if people go away wanting more it argues well for future events. The impressive Beethoven is a whole concert in itself and as given by Murray progressed through the movements to its final exuberant triumph with full tonal power from all sections of the orchestra.

It was an exhilarating performance in every way, the audience recalling conductor and orchestra many times. For soloist, Edgar

Jones, baritone, a native Californian, who has proved himself an artist of real stature, presented four songs by Mahler and three by Ravel. His vocal instrument is deep and vibrant and he uses it with developed discretion and effective results. It was a pity that the lighting at Sunset did not allow for a better view of his facial expression without the distortion and exaggerated shadows that gave it a tragic look, although not altogether out of keeping with the temper of the Mahler group which he sang with pathos and good articulation. The French group by Ravel was

Council Approves Gas Pumps Due For Court Test

In the face of protests, accusations, and mutterings of disaffection from a large audience, Carmel's city council last night upheld the planning commission's ruling that Leslie Fenton may include a gas station in a proposed parking garage in his block-size Carmel Plaza shopping center.

Art Board To Ask City Council Help In Symphony Crisis

The Arts Commission unanimously endorsed the request of Frank Wright, treasurer of the Monterey County Symphony Association, that the city council be requested to contribute to the support of the symphony orchestra.

The symphony's financial situation is precarious, Mr. Wright told the commission, and presented figures. The symphony association needs $3,000 to produce the last concert of the season. A deficit of $1,500 remains from last year. He based his request for city funds on past support given by the city to the Bach Festival. This amounted to $200 annually.

He also asked that the arts commission request the council to ask other communities in this area to give financial support to the symphony. "If Carmel gives us money it will establish a wonderful precedent," he declared. Following the unanimous vote of the commission to ask the council to support the symphony, Mr. Wright thanked them "for their great help."

Mr. Wright made his request at the end of an hour and a half's deliberation by the commission on financial aspects of the Arts Festival.

Charles Thomas, chairman of the festival's co-ordinating council, told commissioners the Festival could not be produced unless the city repairs the Forest Theater, estimated cost $5,000. He also made it plain that unless the council acts soon to fix up the theater, which is to be the nucleus of the festival, it would be impossible to have a festival in 1960.

Commission Chairman Gilbert Boyer disagreed. He stated that the stage at the Forest Theater, major repair necessary, was only of prime importance to drama and ballet production. The arts, music, crafts and writers sections of the festival could be produced without the theater.

"Do you want a partial or a whole festival?" Mr. Thomas countered. Mr. Boyer asked Mr. Thomas

PLEASE RETURN RED CROSS

Chairman Robert Ross of the Carmel American Red Cross chapter is asking that the red cross removed from the Ocean Avenue and Junipero Street intersection be returned to the chapter house.

The red crosses were made by Howard Roberts, at the instigation of Mr. Ross, for the chapter's use during the annual fund drive this year and in the future.

Today, Thomas S. Montgomery, representing Dale Leidig, told the Pine Cone that he will file a petition to have the "entire proceedings reviewed in superior court."

George Walker, who represents Fred and Clara Leidig, said he will "file some type of action to get a ruling" the first of next week.

The planning commission has twice approved the gas station as an accessory use in the C-1 zone, and has been overruled once by the council. Last night's decision followed a special appeal hearing ten days ago.

Two councilmen were loudly and firmly opposed to the ruling—Gunnar Norberg and Allen Knight.

"The planning commission has leap-frogged the municipal code and landed in the sacrosanct judicial realm," Norberg complained. "The code provides for parking lots, but is a parking garage a parking lot? There's a big difference between a lot with the sky overhead and a building that may turn out to be the lower floor of something else."

City Attorney John Morse pointed out that the garage was not the point of issue.

"The precise question is whether the gas station may be allowed as an accessory use," he said.

Morse also told the council that the gas station problem was a quasi-judicial one, and thus could not be referred to the people at the April 12 municipal election, as some of the members had suggested.

Quoting from the Government Code, Morse said, "The legislative body may affirm, reverse, or modify any action taken by the board of adjustments (planning commission.) It may then be reviewed by competent courts."

"Then some action by this council must precede any court action."

Sanitary Board Awards $93,643 Improvement Bid

Tuesday afternoon the Carmel Sanitary Board awarded a contract to enlarge the capacity of the sewage treatment plant to Shanley Construction Company of Santa Clara which submitted the lowest bid, $93,643.

Second and third lowest bids of the eight received came from Fred J. Early Company of San Francisco, $94,600, and E. Norman Peterson Inc. of Berkeley, $103,519.

Bids were opened at the regular meeting of the sanitary board on Monday evening. The contract was awarded at an adjourned meeting the following afternoon. Work will commence, weather permitting, early in April and take five months

THREE LECTURES BY WESTON

Cole Weston, portrait photographer and president of Carmel's Forest Theater Guild, will present the first of three lectures on photography at Monterey Peninsula College March 24.

He will tell about "a day with Edward Weston" explaining the camera techniques of his late father, one of America's greatest photographers, who died at his home in Carmel Highlands January 1, 1958. Other speakers on the same program will present tributes to the late artist photographer.

The lecture series, which will feature Edward C. Forsyth April 28, and Wynn Bullock May 26, will be highlighted by photography exhibits in the new MPC library.

An exhibit of Edward Weston's work will be shown in a specially-designed hall of the library March 21 to April 9.

Cole Weston was recently commissioned by Eastman Kodak Co. to take a number of color pictures.

He is best known for his seascapes. He worked with his father during the years from 1946 to 1958 on a number of picture-stories for Life Magazine.

The MPC photography lecture series and exhibits were arranged by Chester W. Smith, Instructor in Photography. This is the first such series to be presented at the college.

All lectures and exhibits will be open to the public without charge.

Small and large printing orders are quickly filled at The Pine Cone Press. Dial Carmel MA 4-3881.

UC Students Study City Zoning

Three University of California graduate students from the Department of City and Regional Planning spent yesterday studying Carmel's zoning ordinances. They were Don Miller, Dennis Larkin and Monte Hess.

The young men are working on a term project for a course in planning effectuation through zoning taught by Professor Francis Violich. They will complete two years of graduate study for a master's degree in city and regional planning in June.

Impressed with the history and effectuation of planning in Carmel through city zoning ordinances, they decided also to explore the history of zoning within Carmel's zone of influence with the county planning commission. This decision came after sessions with Building Inspector Floyd Adams and City Clerk Larry Rose and researching Carmel zoning history in the files of the Pine Cone.

MONTEREY HIGH WINS CARMEL HOOP TOURNNEY

Coach Ed Larsh's Monterey High basketball squad looked the part of a champion in every respect as it breezed to three easy wins to wrap up the Carmel Invitational Tournament title. On the road to the title, the Treadadores blasted Gonzales, 73 to 45, got revenge on Gilroy, 38 to 34, and rolled to an easy 67-53 win over the Fremont Indians in the final game. Paced by the tourney's most valuable player, Mel Mason, Monterey put together three solid games and the Green and Gold quintet is in prime condition for its invasion of Berkeley tonight where it will participate in the Tournament of Champions at the University of California pavilion.

Fremont High reached Saturday night's final by whipping host Carmel, 41 to 37, Friday night after disposing of Pacific Grove, 54 to 47, on Thursday night. The Indians had the top scorer of the tournament in the person of Sam Bradley who poured through 50 points in the three games. The rangy Indian center was an all-tournament selection and was a favorite of the overflow crowds which witnessed the tourney.

Third place was picked up by the Gilroy Mustangs who got by the first night by clipping Gustine, 36 to 29, but were edged by Monterey in the semi-finals. The Monterey-Gilroy tilt was the best game of the tourney and gave Monterey the season edge over the Mustangs, 2 to 1. In regular league play, the two CCAL A-division schools split a pair and Friday night's tourney game was a showdown affair for coaches Ed Larsh and Bob Hagen. Final action for the third place spot found Gilroy squaring off against host Carmel with both benches 'hanging loose' as the third string performers started the action. Gilroy won the "battle of the free-throw line" 49 to 46, in a contest which was more a parade to the foul line than a test of basketball skill. Nearly 70 free throws were attempted in this one, but both coaches remained calm during the entire two hours.

Little Gustine powered by the Pacific Grove Breakers, 48 to 44, in the consolation finals to take home one of the trophies. This was the best game of the final night and provided some exciting competition by two well-coached teams. The Breakers matched the Indians in the field goal department but the little sharpshooters from San Joaquin Valley were unbeatable at the free-throw line.

Besides winning the tourney, Monterey High placed three performers on the all-tourney squad and had Mel Mason named the top player of the entire tournament. The all-tournament team consisted of Mason, Larry Cooley (Monterey), Bob Jensen (Monterey), Sam Bradley (Fremont), Bob Weaver (Gustine) and Paul Latzke (Gilroy). Carmel's Toby Edson won the sportsmanship award and Russ Wise was picked as the Padre's top performer. Tournament Queen Veronica Taylor supervised the proceedings and was Carmel's hostess for the tournament.

THROUGH THE HOOP

More tournament action for the Carmel High varsity quintet tonight when the Padres travel to Stanford University for the Peninsula Tournament. In tonight's 7 o'clock game, Carmel will trade baskets with the strong Willow Glen squad from the Santa Clara Valley Athletic League. Willow Glen's top performer is Bob Berry, son of Coach Bob Berry who formerly coached at King City High. Bob junior is one of the most talented athletes in Northern California and was recently named quarterback to the North Shrine football squad which will play in Los Angeles this summer. Carmel's B-division champs found the going pretty tough in the Peninsula Tournament last year but the Padres have the height to match some of the big ones this season and could surprise the northern schools. While the Carmel lads are taking their shots at the Stanford gym, the Monterey High Treadadores will be taking on the tougher opposition in the Tournament of Champions at Berkeley. Coach Ed Larsh's gang has drawn Clayton Valley High in the opening round and the Treadadores are favored to advance into the winner's circle in this one. Player-coach Henry Overin led his Carmel Merchant basketball team to the second half title of the Monterey Recreation League by pumping through 27 points as the Merchants took the measure of the Luce Meats, 63 to 59. The Merchants had to come from behind to get the nod in the playoff tilt but mentor Overin provided the spark with a five-point output in the final minute. Other Carmel performers on the winning Merchant squad are Dave Gray, Bobby Updike, Charley Dawson, and Walt Frey. Monterey Peninsula College closed out its best basketball season in history Saturday night at Stanford University by dropping a preliminary game to the strong Stanford Braves. Coach Pete Peletta's charges wound up the season with a 20-9 record and were never out of the running in any of the games which they lost. Bill Hicks and Tom Peyton, former Carmel High cagers, were members of the Lobo squad this season and will return for more hoop action next year.

TRACK MEET AT CARMEL HIGH FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Coach Hadley Hicks sends his Padre thinclads into their first competition of the season tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 when the Hollister and North Salinas track squads invade Bardarson Field for a triangular meet. The Padres are defending champions of the CCAL B-division and have a fair nucleus back for this season's competition. Gone from last year's championship are such good ones as Phil White, Frank Wallace, and Craig Smith who were first-place winners in nearly every meet. However, returning lettermen Pat Boyle, Fred Bucher, Doyle Clayton, (Continued on Page Fifteen)

Council Approves Gas Pumps Due For Court Test

tion?" Allen Knight asked.

"That is correct," Morse answered.

Councilman Norberg wanted to talk some more about the difference between a parking lot and a parking garage, but Mayor John Chitwood told him to stop "fili-bustering."

"Now you're the one who's leap-frogging, Mr. Norberg," he said sternly.

When the mayor called for votes on the motion to sustain the board of adjustments' accessory use ruling, there were three "ayes."

"No!" barked Knight.

"A loud and pronounced NO!" said Norberg.

There was a rumble of discontent from the audience as the motion was passed. The mayor had to call for order. A large number of the visitors filed out, discussing the matter in unmistakably angry voices. The mayor again demanded silence in the council chambers.

"I think," Chitwood observed, "that terminates the matter—for the time being."

Stuart Montmorency, operator of the Richfield station at Fifth and San Carlos, called upon the council last night to take steps to discourage chain cut-rate gas stations in Carmel. He referred particularly to the O. K. Auto Float Company, which he said was planning to take over the lease at the above location. Previously, the Richfield Oil Company had submitted plans to the planning commission for remodeling of the existing station, but they have cancelled the project, Montmorency said.

"I admit some self-interest in the matter," he added, "but I don't think this is the type of enterprise we would like to have here."

His distaste was echoed by Patricia Hall, another member of the audience.

"Isn't this a good time to start to control this sort of thing?" she asked.

Councilmen were unanimously agreed, but did not see that there was much they could do.

Building Inspector Floyd Adams told the council that the station at present is operating under a non-conforming use permit, and that the city may not cancel this privilege simply because of a change in management. He pointed out, however, that the restrictions as to type and size of advertising display on the premises might prove discouraging.

"I'm in favor of doing anything we can to stop things like this," Norberg said.

"Perhaps when they are informed of the limitations and restrictions, they may be reluctant to take the lease," Councilman Tom May suggested.

Adams was instructed to relay the council's views in the matter to the prospective tenants, and to advise them of zoning restrictions.

The council heard a letter from Harold L. Mack, Carmelo and Thirteenth, protesting Carmel Point residents' proposal that Scenic Road be made one-way to Carmelo. Mack asked that the move be "squashed" because it would, he said, turn Carmelo into a clogged thoroughfare. The subject was held over for further study.

Fire Chief Bob Smith was authorized to proceed with arrangements to allow a direct fire alarm circuit to be connected between the fire house and the I. Magnin Store now under construction at Ocean and Junipero.

Smith told council members that the connection would involve no cost or obligation to the fire department, and that the rapid warning system would be of great service in prompt control of fires.

E. Kearns, treasurer of Pack 48 and newly-appointed member of Carmel forest commission.

The eight boys in each of the four dens in Pack 48 will plant two trees on separate Saturday mornings. They are interested in Carmel's reforestation program and "look forward to watching the pines they will plant grow up with them," according to Mr. Kearns.

The council was gratified to find support of the tree program coming from the Cubs, youngest Boy Scouting group.

We promised to keep you abreast of the struggle of Bucks County, Pennsylvania, for green belt by way of 2-acre building sites. Everything is happening as you would expect it to happen, the Bucks County or Monterey County.

The Bucks County Gazette reports:

"Wynn Wright, unofficial leader of Upper Makefielders who oppose a rezoning that would require 2-acre lots over much of the Township, took a petition signed by 251 protesters to the Supervisors' hearing at Woodhill School Tuesday night. Some 200 persons attended.

"Wright suggested the study be continued with the aid of professional planners.

"John Polhemus represented businessmen opposing the change in the business area."

Among the new ordinances before the city council last night was one which would eliminate the requirement for separate performance bonds for police chief, building inspector, tax and license collector, and place all city employees under a blanket performance bond.

City Attorney John Morse brightened the day for the city clerk's staff Monday when, his tongue twisting, he reminded City Clerk Larry Rose to put on the agenda "that ordinance providing a blanket performance blonde."

"Certainly," said Mr. Rose. "We aim to keep the city employees happy."

Dr. Canavarro

Dr. Kim deSouza Canavarro died on Saturday in a hospital in Munich, Germany, after becoming ill while travelling abroad with his wife, Mildred. He had lived in Pebble Beach for the past seven years.

Dr. Canavarro was born in Briarcliff, New York, on April 7, 1918. He received his early education at the Middlesex Elementary school. After graduating from Harvard University he obtained his medical degree from Columbia University School of Medicine. During World War II he served with the Army Medical Corps.

A member of Carmel Mission Parish, Dr. Canavarro belonged to Carmel Council, Knights of Columbus, the Monterey Peninsula General Assembly, fourth degree Knights of Columbus, and the Peninsula Serra Club.

Besides his wife, who arrived back here on Tuesday, Dr. Canavarro is survived by six children, Maria, Elise, Antonio, Nicholas, Gregory and Domenic deSouza Canavarro, all of Pebble Beach; his mother, Mrs. Georges deSouza Canavarro of Tucson, Arizona; and a sister, Mrs. Helen Mathieson of

TREE TOUR ACTION

City Council granted permission to Hugh Smith, for Brayton Wilbur, to trim a cypress at Twelfth and Scenic, on its tree tour Tuesday afternoon. The council approved the P. G. and E. company's request to install a pole anchor at the north east corner of Lincoln and Tenth Streets.

The same company's request for permission to remove two pine trees at Junipero and Eighth streets was held over for consideration at council meeting Wednesday night. See council story.

particularly expressive and dramatic, and exhibited the range and full capacity of his strong voice. The singer as well as Murray were enthusiastically recalled by the audience that virtually filled the auditorium. Murray's conducting is attained with conservative action generally but can show his feeling and drive when needed. The whole progress of the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra is bringing happiness to its subscribers. The next pair of concerts will be at Salinas, May 9, and Carmel, May 10.

Monday night an enthusiastic audience was present for the last event of this season's series of the Monterey Peninsula Concert Association which presented the Temianka Little Symphony conducted by Henri Temianka, who also performed as solo violinist. We have been familiar with Temianka.

Maria Hallsted Finds Right Touch In Playing Jennet In Fanciful Christopher Fry Play At The Studio

To celebrate Spring, The Studio has made a happy choice in Christopher Fry's poetic fantasy, The Lady's Not For Burning.

It is an elegant entertainment. Fry's dialogue glows with the embellishments of his special style of metaphor like a Medieval text with gilt illuminations; his characters are drawn with wit and grace.

A 15th century witch hunt is the background against which Fry poses such timely—and timeless—foibles as bureaucratic stupidity, bigotry, and general human foolishness. The lady of the title, Jennet Jourdain, is a spirited and enlightened creature ready to make light of the absurd charges brought against her. In her defense—and in disgust at life—an ex-soldier named Thomas Mendip variously claims to be a murderer and the devil, and demands to be hanged. The town's witless worthies decline to accept either her innocence or his guilt; but eventually, love finds a way, and all ends more or less happily.

The action of the play occurs most vividly in the lines themselves, which are sometimes tongue-twisters. The sound and sense of Fry are hard to follow if the pace is forced and the stage movement overstressed, and in this the Studio production seems misdirected. Director Richard Bailey keeps the players in such vigorous motion—posturing, pacing, gesticulating—that some of the play's vaporous charm is lost.

The performances, while generally quite good, are somewhat uneven, with little unanimity as to approach: some of the cast treat Fry's high-style satire as burlesque, others go at it straight-face. Of them all, Maria Hallsted as Jennet seems to find just the right touch; her performance is high-humored and fanciful without being frivolous. Errol Allan is almost too much of a good thing as the disenchanted soldier; his ringing voice and dominating stature give the role heroic dimensions a bit out of scale to the rest of the play.

The secondary pair of lovers, a winsome ingenue named Alison and a gentle-natured clerk, Richard, are sensitively played by Joyce Hahn and Cliff Berry. Sue Peoples gives a spirited comic portrayal of a shallow-witted townswoman, Mrs. Devise, and Cliff Anderson is drolly judicial as the justice, Tappercoom. Richard Bailey and Phil Berger, as the quarrelsome Devise brothers, seem a bit over-mannered in their acting, and Al Holliday, as the petty provincial mayor, plays the fool somewhat too shrilly. Pat Ryan is good as a flustered chaplain, and Jim Whittemore makes a brief if noisy appearance as a drunken ragpicker.

Despite its minor flaws, the production is a highly pleasant one to see and hear. In a further experiment in staging, the Studio is using a combination of arena and proscenium which is both spacious and effective. Ruth Allan's set makes a simple and attractive foil for the brightly imaginative costumes devised by Maria Hallsted. The lighting by Reed Putnam and James Whittemore and the sound by Ruth De Roshay are up to the Studio's usual high standards.

The Studio earns thanks for re-

anka's now famous Paganini Quartet, originally founded when he lived in Carmel Highlands, which we last heard at the National Music Clubs' Convention at San Diego in April. His affable facility and humor in addressing audiences with information and anecdote always adds to the interest and entertainment of his listeners, and at Pacific Grove High School he won applause for all he did.

The ensemble of fine players, most of whom are soloists, gave their conductor all he needed in his rendering of the Bach E major Violin Concerto that opened the program with its three virile notes. The three movements were all carried through with fine feeling and artistic brilliancy in tone and intent, as also was the Mozart Serenade No. 6 with its gentler nocturnal mood. A Weber Concertino for Clarinet and Orchestra brought forward David Atkins with his striking skill supported by the orchestra. In the Saint-Saens Carnival of the Animals, various members of the 17-persons-ensemble had individual opportunity, as this composition calls for various solo bits throughout its amusing tonal representations, from the March of the Lion and its roar to the grace of the Swan and the Finale. So entertaining is this work that a number of extras were called for and given, including a Bach B minor Suite for Flute and Strings, and a piccolo solo played by Gretel Shanley with fluent and sparkling execution that made her a popular performer. A waltz by Arsenksy for pianos was presented by Sylvia Jenkins and William Corbett with rhythm and abandon in their pianism. Their part in the Carnival called Pianists amusingly illustrated technical practise. Forest Clark, percussion player, gave examples on his instruments, including a tambourine. The Temianka Little Symphony performance added greatly to this week's Peninsula orchestral offerings as a foremost program of compositions for smaller orchestras. Following intermission, the enterprising president, Mrs. Clyde Dyke, announced information and plans in her live manner that has made a continuing success of the Concert Association.

viving The Lady's Not For Burning equal its worldly fantasy without being precious, and fewer yet fall so happily on the ear. Christopher Fry, like Dylan Thomas, brings one to a fresh and grateful awareness of the beauty of the English tongue.

The Lady's Not For Burning plays Thursday through Sunday nights at 8:30 o'clock, and it is a fine diversion for a Spring evening.

AUTHENTIC MELODRAMA WITH OLIO

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg

We have nine years of the Pine Cone on film already, and some day this week, before this piece gets into print, we will have the film reader upstairs and will be happy to give you a demonstration of how it works. The chief thing holding us up is my poor memory because the table is coming from my house and I forget to bring it along when I start out in the morning. Word of honor, it will be in the library by the time you read this.

Maybe it takes the Irish to love an Irish novel, but if that be true there are many such hereabouts, because Una Troy's earlier books seem never to be on the shelves at all, at all. The Graces of Ballykeen is the latest one and the graces in it are two Sisters of Grace who escaped the disciplines of convent life by taking over the Workhouse in Ballykeen. As it turned out, Sister Peter and Sister Paul just about took over the whole village also, and the telling of their story makes a simple, jolly novel which anyone can enjoy.

Another mirthy one is Cher Papa by Frederick Kohner who wrote Gidget, and this one might have been entitled the further adventures of Gidget, or something, because that's what it is. In this one Gidget has reached the ripe old age of seventeen. She goes on a skiing holiday with her father, falls in love with a ski instructor, and there begins the story.

For people with money, we have a new book by Arnold Bernhard. It is called The Evaluation of Common Stocks, and it is said to present a disciplined method of evaluation of stocks. This should do much to prevent irrational excesses and losses in the market. With so many people buying stocks these days, this book should have a good circulation.

Robert Daley was born and grew up in New York City, but he never really liked the place until he started doing research for his book The World Beneath the City. This is not only a mole's eye view of a city but it is a history of the underground life of New York, and it is fascinating.

Sometimes the making of a stage production can be as interesting as the play itself. With this in mind, William Gibson who wrote Two for the Seesaw, has done a log of the production and called it The Seesaw Log. The book contains also a complete text of the play.

Finally, we have a copy of Arthur King's book The Cigarette Habit. If you have it and want to get rid of it, this is the book for you. Take out this book and read it; you might live longer. No one opinion about this has been able to make up everyone's mind, but your own opinion is the one which is important to you.

Rene Moore

Mrs. Rene Willson Moore died on Saturday afternoon in a local hospital. She came from Oakland to live in Carmel 32 years ago. Her home was at Torres Street and Second Avenue.

Survivors are her husband, William Ray Moore of Carmel; and two sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth W. Baker of Honolulu and Mrs. Ella W. Treanor of Oakland.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday afternoon in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea.

Laura Arrowsmith

Mrs. Laura Louise Arrowsmith, mother of Mrs. Philip Smith of Rancho Aguajito, died on March 4 of a heart condition in her home at Alta and Mission Streets. She had been a resident of Carmel for two years. The late Haydn Arrowsmith was her husband.

Mrs. Arrowsmith was born in Berkeley 85 years ago.

In addition to Mrs. Smith, she is survived by a sister, Mrs. Alli Wesler of Berkeley; and two grandchildren.

The Prokofiev Sonata for Flute and Piano, copyrighted in 1958, will be performed by Raymond Fabrizio and Mr. Boyer. Mr. Fabrizio will also play the Vivaldi Flute Concerto, Op. 10, No. 5, accompanied by the chamber orchestra.

Milton Mayer Lectured Friday On Civil Liberties

Milton Mayer, Carmel author and journalist, lectured on Civil Liberties in America, Friday night at 8:00 o'clock. His talk, the first of three on the topic, inaugurated Monterey Peninsula College's Critique II series, and was held in the Library Lecture Hall.

Mayer has long been a contributor to Life, Atlantic, Harper's, Progressive, Christian Century and Saturday Evening Post magazines. His latest book, co-authored by Mortimer Adler, Revolution in Education, was published by the University of Chicago Press. He has lectured for the American Friends Service Committee, The Fellowship of Reconciliation (an international religious pacifist organization) and the Jewish Peace Fellowship.

He has travelled throughout Europe, his most recent trip being through the countries behind the Iron Curtain. He spent about a month each in Czechoslovakia, Hungary and East Germany with his family, as a guest of the Protestant churches there.

He has been a resident of Carmel since his return in 1952 from Germany, where he taught at Frankfurt University. On a Ford Foundation Grant, he made tape recorded interviews with a broad cross-section of people in several countries. The recordings are now being used for broadcasting by the National Association of Educational Broadcasters, for the Voices of Europe program, of which he is director.

Mayer attended the University of Chicago. He has taught at William Penn College, University of Chicago and Frankfurt University, and has been guest lecturer at many other educational institutions both here and abroad.

He will give three lectures on Civil Liberties in America. In the first, last Friday, he defined the nature of civil liberty; on March 11, he will discuss the civil liberties situation in the United States today; and in the third, March 18, he will speak on the responsibilities of the individual with regard to civil liberty.

Critique II will continue in May, with lectures by Dr. Peter Odegard, author and political scientist, on Local Government in America. All Critique II lectures are open to the public without charge.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

Spiritual treasures are available to all—this is a theme of the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Substance" to be read at Christian Science services Sunday.

The divine source of true substance will be brought out in passages to be read from the Bible, including the following:

"Treasures of wickedness profit nothing: but righteousness delivereth from death. The Lord will not suffer the soul of the righteous to famish: but he casteth away the substance of the wicked. . . . The blessing of the Lord, it maketh rich, and he addeth no sorrow with it" (Proverbs 10: 2,3,22).

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, the following will be read (451:14): "Man walks in the direction towards which he looks, and where his treasure is, there will his heart be also. If our hopes and affections are spiritual, they come from above, not from beneath, and they bear as of old the fruits of the Spirit."

Crichton Comedy Opens Tomorrow At The Circle

Kyle Crichton's comedy, The Happiest Millionaire, opens tomorrow evening for a six-weeks' run at the Circle Theatre.

Based on Cordelia Drexel Biddle's biography, My Philadelphia Father, Crichton's play depicts the struggle of the millionaire's daughter to escape from the shadow of her jovial but overbearing father. Her marriage to Angier Duke, heir to a tobacco fortune, was a social event of the first magnitude prior to World War I.

The Circle features Bill Schofield, Carol McLin and Bill K. Houle as father, daughter and suitor, respectively, Edith Karas and Florence Venn play major women's roles, and Mary Weisiger and Jon Graves, both of Carmel, are among the younger actors in the cast of 14.

The Circle's volunteer staff has recently been augmented by production manager Zelma Weinfield, former director of community theatres in West Virginia and Colorado, and costumer Sandy Sheffield, who studied his craft at Utah State University. They are assisted in the present production by Dan Clark, Robert Yost, Muriel Neikirk, Alan Weinfield, Sally Reichard, Beth Zanides, Mary Hicks and Elsbeth Nelson. Additional backstage assistance is welcomed by the director, Frederick Rider.

Stockton Choral In Concert Sunday At Wayfarer Church

The 34 voice Stockton Choral, augmented by a brass ensemble of nine members, will present a program on Sunday evening at 8:00 o'clock in the Church of the Wayfarer. Directed by Arthur J. Holton, this choral has performed major oratorios with orchestras and makes a spring tour each year. They were heard in the Berlioz Requiem with the San Francisco Symphony under the direction of Enrique Jorda two years ago and will appear with the same orchestra in Stockton on May 22 of this year.

The group presented a program in Carmel, and return by popular request. Their program on Sunday evening will include a group of four songs by Brahms and the Jubilate Deo of Gabrieli, sung by a double chorus with the brass ensemble.

Their second group is an unusual dramatic performance of music and contemporary scripture entitled, What Does Easter Mean to You? Included are: the American folk song, I Wonder As I Wander; Mendelssohn's If With All Your Hearts from Elijah; the Negro Spiritual, Were You There? and Beethoven's Hallelujah.

The concluding group in the program will be the Negro Spirituals, Ain't Got Time to Die, Ezekiel Saw De Wheel, and Every Time I Feel De Spirit; and the folk song Green Grow the Rushes, Ho!

The program is open to the public and there will be an offering taken. An informal reception in Fellowship Hall will follow the concert.

Senior Craftsmen Organize, Receive Offer Of Shop Space

Bennet, a weaver, has been teaching crafts at Town House and is an active member of the Carmel Crafts Guild. Mrs. Dorothy Thorne and Mrs. Anna Kenefick are the secretaries. Mrs. Thorne is a jewelry and braided rug maker. Mrs. Kenefick, a newcomer to the Peninsula, is interested in ceramics. Dr. Paula Tobias, treasurer, is active at Town House and a member of The Carmel Crafts Guild. Mrs. Paul Rockey, craft chairman, teaches stitchery at Town House and is a versatile craftsman who has had her own shop and advised a senior crafts shop in Oregon. Mrs. Keith S. Messent, chairman of display and publicity, is a board member of The Carmel Crafts Guild, active in Town House, and a teacher of flower arranging.

Learning that the Senior Craftsmen wanted a shop, the owners and operators of The Party Carousel, who are moving to larger quarters on March 15, offered the senior craftsmen the use of the patio room for the sale of their crafts in their new shop in the Tuck Box Court. The membership voted to accept their offer with gratitude if a means of furnishing the space could be worked out.

Subsequently, the board of The Carmel Foundation met and voted to donate the money to provide display shelves and counters so that the senior craftsmen could take advantage of this opportunity in place of their sponsoring Craft Fair again, the advantages of the year-round outlet being so much greater.

Any senior craftsman wishing to have his work in the shop on opening day or as soon after as possible, may call Mrs. Bennett, OL 9-2391. Crafts should not be taken to the shop.

Death Valley To Squaw Valley

Barbara and Tony Saracas are telling about the contrast in valleys which they visited on their month's vacation. Leaving Carmel they went to Furnace Creek, Las Vegas and Death Valley, then drove to Squaw Valley where they spent two weeks watching Winter Olympic events. "We went from 200 feet below sea level to 7,000 feet above," reports Tony.

Back in Carmel last week they planned to re-open their Hob-Nob Restaurant this week but illness of staff member Mary Cooke prevented this and Saturday is now set as the day the business will be operating again.

Get Life Teaching Diplomas

Anne belongs to families long associated with this area. Her paternal grandparents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Waldo Hicks, came to Carmel in 1912. ### To Hear Pres. of Leprosy Mission

Dr. Oliver W. Hasselblad, new president of the American Leprosy Mission, will be welcomed for an official visit to the Monterey Peninsula on Wednesday, March 23, at the Christian Church on Central Avenue in Pacific Grove. Hostess group for the afternoon is the United Church Women of the area.

Dr. Hasselblad will speak to the meeting at 1:30 o'clock on the work carried on throughout the world by the organization, which is supported in its humanitarian service by the churches of America. Women's groups meet monthly to tear and sew bandages which are shipped to A. L. M. headquarters to be distributed to hospitals and clinics in foreign countries, such as that at Lambarene in Africa, served by Dr. Albert Schatz, who gave up two other successful careers to serve unfortunate sufferers of leprosy. The churches also contribute money for medicines and for support of the patients.

Following the talk on March 23, tea will be served by a committee headed by Mrs. Robert Peterson and Mrs. R. O. Hazelrigg. Mrs. Perry Swan, wife of the minister of the church, is hostess, and decorations will be provided by Miss Frances Hairgrove. Those who attend will have the opportunity to meet Dr. Hasselblad.

OES Dinner And Movies

Carmel Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, will have a dinner on Saturday evening from 5:30 to 8:30 o'clock in the Carmel Masonic Temple. Following dinner color movies with sound will be shown including the 1960 Tournament of Roses Parade, Disney's Window Cleaners and Something New Under the Sun. Two accordion musicians will play during the evening.

Unity Meeting Open

The Unity class which meets each Wednesday afternoon in the Morgan Studio, Lincoln and Seventh, will welcome persons wishing to attend. Until Easter the lessons to be studied will be those found in the book, Keep A True Lent.

Falvey's Moving To Valley

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Falvey are moving from Carmel to Carmel Valley. They came here last summer from Lake Forest, Illinois. Mr. Falvey is an advertising man and Mrs. Falvey is a registered nurse.

Smith Family At Fire House

Introduced to members of the Carmel Highlands Association last week by Fire Chief Seizo Kodani were occupants of the new fire house living quarters. They are Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Smith and their sons Jim and Chris. Jim is the Highlands Fire District's first paid fireman in addition to Chief Kodani. Chris is a pupil at River School. The Smiths' third son, Bob, is Carmel fire chief.

The Smiths came to the Highlands from Sacramento where Mr. Smith has been a fireman for many years.

Booklovers Meet Monday

Mrs. John Harrison, Carmel businesswoman and authority on Japanese art, will talk to members of the Booklovers Club on Monday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock in Town House. Her subject will be Interior Decoration and Oriental Art.

Elaine Whitaker Recuperating

Francis and Elaine Whitaker arrived home on Friday, Elaine with a broken leg in a cast. She was injured on Washington's Birthday while skiing at Brighton, Utah. Since then she has been a patient in a Salt Lake City hospital and must remain in a wheel chair or in bed for the next two months. "No walking cast," was the verdict of the physician who operated on her leg, "and no driving."

Before the Utah accident, the Whitakers skied for a week at Mammoth Mountain, California, then drove across the desert through Bishop and Tonopah to Salt Lake City. "One hundred and fifty miles of high desert mountain country with no utility posts, no fences, no billboards," they observe.

On the way home the engine of their car developed a cracked cylinder and they were almost stranded in the Mojave desert. However, water in a thermos helped fill the leaking motor and "it rained, thank goodness," they add. Back at home, Francis is busy, cooking, campaigning for a council seat and blacksmithing at his Forge in the Forest.

Masons To Confer First Degree

A special meeting of Carmel Lodge, F. & A. M., to confer first degree will be held tomorrow evening at 8:00 o'clock in the Masonic Temple. Refreshments will be served after the meeting. All sojourners and members are invited to be present.

Home From Acapulco Race

Fred Dodd returned home this week after sailing his boat, the Sayonara, in the Acapulco Race. Lack of wind made the race a "drifting match," he reports. During one maddening period he was completely becalmed but managed to finish fourth in his class and tenth overall.

The trip home was the reverse of the race with too much wind and a storm. Fred stopped in Newport for some repair work before bringing the Sayonara home.

Xenia Kastor Is Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Milton C. Kastor of Carmel Valley are announcing the engagement of their eldest daughter, Xenia Rosalene, to Arthur James Rotter, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Rotter of Monterey.

Xenia was born in Carmel. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. William Plein and the late Mr. Plein of Carmel who came here to live in 1919. Her sisters are Mrs. William Livingston of Soledad and Cheryl Kastor, a student at Tularcitos School. Rance Kastor, a sophomore at Carmel High School, is her brother.

A graduate of Tularcitos School and Carmel High School, Xenia received her associate of arts degree from Monterey Peninsula College in 1958. In May she will graduate from Dominican College in San Rafael where she is majoring in elementary teaching.

Xenia's fiancé attended San Carlos School and Monterey High School before graduating from Monterey Peninsula College in 1952. He served in the Navy for four years and is now a business administration major at the University of San Francisco. Robert Rotter of Concord, Richard, Jack and Michael, all of Monterey, are his brothers and he has one sister, Patricia, of Monterey.

Xenia and Jim plan to be married on August 13 in Carmel Mission Basilica.

Potlucks Help Buy Instruments

Both Woods and River School parents will meet for annual potluck suppers on Tuesday evening at 6:30 o'clock. No program is planned for the social gatherings.

Each couple attending Woods School's supper is asked to bring a wrapped white elephant for admission. These will be auctioned during the evening and the proceeds used to purchase musical instruments for the elementary schools.

A Penny For An Instrument will be the slogan for River School's supper. The collection of pennies will be given to the elementary musical instrument fund.

The suppers will take the place of the regular March Carmel Elementary P-TA meetings.

Irwins Have Four Children

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Irwin are the parents of one daughter and three sons since the birth of James Martin Irwin at the Peninsula Community Hospital on February 25. His birth weight was seven pounds, seven ounces.

James' sister, Holly, is five years old. His brothers are David, three, and Michael, one and a half.

Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Irwin of Pebble Beach and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Harris of Salinas are James' grandparents.

Peter Sands Sherman Born

On February 25 in the Peninsula Community Hospital, Lieutenant and Mrs. Peter Sherman became the parents of a nine pound, 11 ounce son whom they have named Peter Sands.

Welcoming him to the family are Paul, six, Ellen, three, and Gail, 18 months. His father is an aeronautical engineering student at the Naval Postgraduate School and will complete his two years' work here in August.

Peter's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Robinson of Collingswood, New Jersey, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Sherman of Bay Village, Ohio.

William John First Child

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Goodrick have named their first child William John. He was born at the Peninsula Community Hospital on March 4 with a birth weight of seven pounds, 14 ounces.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Henderson of Los Altos, formerly of Carmel Valley, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Goodrick of Carmel Valley are William John's grandparents.

His father is director of transportation for the Carmel school district. He arranged for a relief driver to take his place in case the baby were born during the hours school buses are in operation. However, William John arrived at 2:50 o'clock in the morning and the buses rolled as usual.

A Boy For The Boones

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Boone now have a son and a daughter. Their son, Judson King, was born on March 4. He weighed nine pounds, two ounces when he arrived at the Peninsula Community Hospital. His sister, Tracey, is almost three years old.

Judson King's parents have been Carmel residents for two and a half years. His father is the proprietor of an infants clothing shop in Monterey.

Mr. and Mrs. James L. Boone of New York City and Mr. Wallace H. Bernard of Seattle, Washington, are his grandparents.

as to state definitely whether or not he wanted to proceed with festival plans this year. "Yes," replied Mr. Thomas.

Mr. Boyer then pointed out that both the arts and drama committees of the co-ordinating council had undertaken the responsibility of raising the necessary funds for their parts of the festival. This amounted to $3,900, a substantial figure to present to the council when asking for $5,000 to repair the Forest Theater.

Commissioner Vaughn Shoemaker suggested the commission recommend to the council that subscriptions for the festival be solicited. He remarked that the council had already indicated they would repair the Forest Theater. If the council does not repair the theater, the commission would be in an embarrassing situation, he emphasized. The commission initiated procedures to produce the festival after receiving council approval for the event, and established the co-ordinating council.

"We will not be able to get the co-ordinating council to do all this work again," he said, and added "I know about one resignation if the council doesn't act." Commissioner Ruth Cooke supported Mr. Shoemaker's stand. She brought out the fact that commissioners would indeed be in an embarrassing predicament as plans for the festival began after stimulation from the arts commission.

Herbert Heron, present in the audience, told commissioners the city-owned Forest Theater represented a value of at least $100,000. An investment of $5,000 to repair after 20 years of "weathering" the stage seemed minor considering the value of the property, according to Mr. Heron. All the city had contributed towards acquiring the property was $2,500. The land was a gift and a federal grant of $16,000 had been received to put the theater in shape 20 years ago, he added.

Mr. Thomas stated that the co-ordinating council was anxious to use the theater, "one of the Carmel traditions." Sunset auditorium cannot be used for drama productions in October as school will be in session.

Arts commissioners then approved the tentative programs and budgets presented to them by the co-ordinating council, and requested Commission secretary, Larry Rose, to transmit their recommendation to the city council.

Commissioners recommended that the co-ordinating council be given permission to solicit funds in the form of $2.00 subscriptions, and gifts to finance the Arts Festival.

These funds to be solicited in the name of the Arts Commission, placed in the commission's trust and later turned over to the co-ordinating council.

At the suggestion of Commissioner Nelo Drizari, discussion on the artist-in-residence program was continued. He said the festival should take priority over the artist-in-residence program and the public should not be confused by two fund raising programs.

County Planners Informally O. K. Huge Subdivision

Monterey County Planning Commission gave informal approval Tuesday for an 2100-acre country club type of subdivision on the Holt Ranch east of the Farm Center in Carmel Valley. The acreage in the subdivision will be divided as follows: 1,150 acres as green belt including wooded canyons; 700 acres for 1,000 home sites; 30 acres offered to the school district for purchase for junior high school; 78 acres of river bottom for an 18-hole golf course; ten acres for a 100-room hotel; four acres for apartment development. Lot sizes will range from four to one-half acres.

Stables, trails, two reservoirs and a lake are also in the plans. Home costs will start at $32,500, according to Arthur Lambert, representative for the developers.

The commission continued the hearing on the eight-mile plan prepared by James Campbell for property owners along the coast road from Malpaso to Bixby Creek until the master plan for 75 miles of the coast is completed by Owings, Skidmore and Merrill.

EMERGENCY CALLS

to complete, according to the contractor.

Increased treatment facilities at the sewage disposal plant below the Carmel River bridge are necessary because of the overload carried by the plant. Building in the sanitary district area has made present treatment facilities inadequate.

The enlargement which will begin in April is the first step in a three-year program to bring the sewage facilities up to date. Sanitary board members plan to finance this construction from current funds rather than increase the sanitary district tax rate or ask for a bond issue.

Board members were pleased with the low bid of $93,643 which was $5,842 lower than the estimate of the district engineers for the necessary increased capacity of the plant.

o'clock firemen took Lloyd Lott of Seaside to the same hospital. He was injured while working at the Carmel Plaza construction site.

Sports ...

Al Dahlstrand, Joe Foster, Frank Mayo, Paul Rice, Charley Todd, Bill True, and Russ Wise are back to pick up the slack. Lightweight letter winners who will help fill the varsity ranks this year are Wylie Bryant, Gary Clay, Rick Fraser, Gerhard Kalmus, Bill King, Nick Molitor, Dan Moore, Lee Oleson, Frank Preve, and Jon Raggett.

North Salinas is in its first year of track competition but the Vikings inherited some first class track talent from powerful Salinas High and will offer Hollister and Carmel a severe test in tomorrow's meet. The Haybalers have dropped down as a track power in recent years and have been easy prey for the smaller schools in the B-division. However, there is lots of track talent at Hollister and the 'Balers could be the surprise of the league.

DICK JENNINGS TO PITCH FOR FRESNO STATE

Former Carmel High School athlete Dick Jennings is one of the top pitching prospects on Fresno State College's 1960 baseball squad.

A 22-year-old sophomore physical education major, Jennings is expected to be one of the key men as the Bulldogs try to rebuild a graduation-riddled mound staff. He is a right-handed control specialist and probably will be used primarily in relief.

Before going to Fresno State

College, Jennings twice was named to the All-Coast Counties Athletic League baseball team while pitching for Carmel High. He also won two baseball letters at Monterey Peninsula College and led the squad in hitting last year with a .425 average.

Fresno State opened its 1960 schedule last weekend with a 7-4 loss to the University of California and will host UCLA Friday and Saturday. Also on the schedule are series with USC and San Jose State in addition to 15 California Collegiate Athletic Association contests.

NIETOS MEET CARMELITES

Mr. and Mrs. August Nieto came home on Saturday after a trip which took them as far south as Ensenada in Baja California. Returning from Ensenada they visited Palm Springs and were surprised when greeted by Carmelite James Rowe, also on vacation.

The Nietos stayed at Apple Valley while visiting their recently married son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Bill McCormack, whose home is in Victorville. Continuing to Las Vegas, they saw shows before proceeding to Death Valley. Here they unexpectedly met Mr. and Mrs. Dale Leidig of Carmel who were holidaying in the desert.

On their way back to Carmel, the Nietos took a side trip to Sequoia National Park.
